The Yorktown Celebration.

YORKTOWN, Oct. 17.—The day has passed very quietly. The 5th Maryland regiment arrived this morning and immediately went into camp. A steamer with a New Jersey battalion and Governor Ludlow's staff got to the dock about 8 o'clock. By the time they were landed the weather became very hot and en route to camp more than fifty men dropped from the ranks and were brought in by ambulance. At 6 this evening the whole battalion partook of supper. Religious services were held in the pavilion in the morning by Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane, of the Catholic diocese of Virginia, assisted by Archbishop Gibbons, of Maryland, and in the afternoon by Rev. John Hull, of Massachusetts. Troops of the governor and staff are expected to-night. The quarters occupied by different states are about the same as when the surrender was made. Gen. Hancock's headquarters are at the same point as the headquarters of Washington. The first regiment of Michigan troops, with Michigan's governor and staff, will arrive to-morrow with other troops.

The Last Relics.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Workmen began this morning to remove the Garfield pavilion and arches in the park. The dais upon which the body lay in state is to be preserved in the western reserve historical rooms. The relics will be preserved at the Columbus city hall and the armories here. Most of the floral emblems will be restored and distributed as Mrs. Garfield dictated.

Steamer Capsized.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—This morning the steamship Crescent City capsized while in the dry dock and was badly damaged. John Hart, fireman on the steamer, was killed and his body lost.

Appointments and Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The president has nominated Frank A. Eastman of the District of Columbia, U. S. attorney of Montana; A. F. Coon P. M. at David City, Neb.; Chas. H. Gould of Nebraska, receiver of public money at Mills City, Mont.; Chas. W. Pierce, of Nebraska, register of the land office at Lincoln; Geo. W. Wilkinson of Nebraska, agent for Indians at Omaha and Winnebago agency, Neb.

The senate confirmed Robt. G. Holly of Vermont, U. S. consul at Barbadoes; Septimus J. Hanna register of the land office at Leadville, Col.; Augustus Brassius Indian agent at Great Nemaha agency, Neb.; Jno. Harris of the District of Columbia, Indian agent at Nemaha agency, Neb.; John W. Cramsey of Dakota, at Devil's Lake; Jas. McLaughlin of Dakota, at Standing Rock, and Geo. H. Spencer, of Minnesota, at Crow Creek, Dakota.

Ex-Senator McDonald's Opposition.

Ex-Senator McDonald is here to fight the confirmation of Dudley for commissioner of pensions. He charges that Dudley exceeded the duties of his office as U. S. marshal in the last presidential campaign, and prostituted his office for political purposes. He appointed 562 deputies in Indianapolis and elsewhere to work for the republicans, and these agents were politicians. McDonald expects to combine the democrats against Dudley. Other democrats allege that Dudley discharged several faithful and competent democrats from the pension bureau because of their politics. The fight is likely to become a party question, and Dudley's confirmation depends on Davis' vote. His friends and opponents are equally confident.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The president leaves on despatch for Yorktown this afternoon. Secretary Blaine and assistant secretary left this morning.

Discussion Deferred.

The democratic caucus this morning was attended by only a quorum. After discussion on the secretaryship it was decided to defer the whole subject until the senate reassembled.

Senator Mahone Arrested.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Late to-night Senator Mahone was arrested at the instance of Samuel Strong, an old resident of Washington, who received information, he believed from a reliable source that Gen. Jubal A. Early had challenged Mahone to fight a duel and the latter had accepted the challenge. Mahone was taken to the residence of Judge Snell, of the police court, where he denied having received a challenge from Gen. Early, saying the latter was too old and feeble to fight and adding that all their differences had been harmonized. Mahone was released on personal bond and returned home. He will appear on Monday.

Mahone Scores Gen. Jubal A. Early.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

To the Public: The speech of Gen. Jubal A. Early in Richmond on Oct. 11th, 1881, has been read by me. So far as it refers to myself, the rank of Gen. Early in the confederate army entitles the speech to that much, that it brings me to decide whether I shall demand satisfaction from Gen. Early for what was intended by him as an insult. After years of unprovoked malice and indirection he presents the issues squarely and grossly. It admits of no discussion, and would neither be met nor evaded by recrimination. I so accept it; and my decision, arrived at advisedly and maturely, is that the rank of Gen. Early, which is his sole claim to recognition, does not outweigh the other considerations which forbid such recognition. The public of Virginia need no specification of the facts concerning Gen. Early on which I rely for this action. I only desire to make it known that I am not ignorant nor neglectful of his speech. I could not have satisfaction, and I can have none even in describing him as he is known by all men. He may therefore proceed with his falsehoods and would-be insults, assured of immunity as far as I am concerned.

WM. MAHONE.

Riddleberger's Reputation.

RICHMOND, Oct. 16.—Previous to the meeting of Riddleberger and Wise, the former and Richard T. Berne, editor of the Richmond State, met for the purpose of fighting a duel, but when all parties appeared on the ground selected it was found that no caps had been provided for the pistols, so Riddleberger rode away to fight with Wise. Wise and the State editor have been arrested and placed under bonds to keep the peace.

THE UNION COUNTY FAIR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

UNION, Oct. 13.

Owing to the cold weather the attendance thus far is smaller than usual. The management is excellent; and all possible care has been taken to insure success. A light fall of snow on the second day put the race track in poor condition for fast time. To-day there were two races, a three year old running race, two best in three, and a three best in five trotting race. The track being heavy, slow time was made. Policy won the first heat in 1:50 and 2, Daisy and Buckskin shut out in second heat. The trot was won in three straight heats by Walla Walla Maid, Lemont second and Bashaw third; Time 2:55, 2:50½ and 2:52.

The exhibit in the pavilion and stock yards is better than on any former year. We notice one pumpkin of 60 lbs and a cabbage of 37 lbs.

Some forty or fifty first class racers are in the stables. Among other races yet to come off we would mention the trot between Lady Faustina, Sweet Home and others of like class; also the fifty mile race between Green, Wilson and Steers. The former is a young and daring rider, and we understand he paid $500 for two of his ten horses. Steers, the favorite, has ridden the fifty miles in 2 hours and 6 minutes.

THE ASSASSIN.

The Plea for Time by the Defense—Scoville Presents Guiteau as a Person of Timid Disposition, and of Pleasing and Estimable Character.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, spoke to the court in regard to witnesses to facts: "I have stated them in my affidavit as fully as I am at present informed. The court will readily perceive that it is of the utmost importance not only to the prisoner himself, but to the public at large that the prisoner should be well represented in his defense. It seems to be utterly impracticable that the trial should take place next week. If General Butler declines to appear in the case, it would be proper for the prisoner himself to indicate to the court his choice of counsel." Scoville then proceeded to discuss the question of procuring attendance of witnesses from abroad and hiring experts to be paid by the government. He claimed that under the statute in question it was entirely in the discretion of the court. He said: "As yet I am alone in this matter and have no one to help me, not even a clerk to prepare copy papers. This work of getting up evidence, looking up witnesses and subpœnaing them all devolves upon myself, and I ask that such action may be taken by the court as will enable me to get witnesses for the defense into court. On some of the questions stated in affidavits I am perfectly willing to take the depositions of witnesses; for instance proof of the allegation that certain members of the Guiteau family became insane and died in an asylum, and facts that are easily proven by depositions without subjecting the government to the cost of bringing witnesses here. But in another class of testimony, where it rests upon opinions and conclusions of witnesses from certain circumstances, it may be very important, as the court will see, to have witnesses here for examination and cross-examination, so that facts and circumstances may be inquired into more fully than they could possibly be on written interrogations. This class of witnesses as well as experts, the value of whose testimony would depend a great deal upon the examination and cross-examination to which they would be subjected before the jury, should all be in personal attendance on the trial. A fair trial cannot be had in any other way, and that is the reason why I asked the court to issue an order to allow expenses of such witnesses, and to give me sufficient time to prepare a defense. As to the time required I do not wish to suggest it at present. I would much prefer that the district attorney would be sufficiently liberal in the matter so that no question would be raised. There are certain indictments on the docket which are ahead of our case, some of them are rather important ones, and which can in the meantime be tried to advantage. I believe the star route cases are ahead of it. This defendant can be in jail for a few weeks or longer without harm to himself or the government. At the same time I want the court to understand there is no disposition so far as I am concerned, to postpone the trial. In fact I want it disposed of just as soon as it can be done with justice to the defendant and so as to secure an impartial trial."

Corkhill in reply said:

"My own judgment about the matter, independently of circumstances surrounding the case is that the trial ought to take place immediately or as soon as possible. The government is ready for trial and will be ready on Monday next. The trial should not be unduly postponed; it is true the gentleman representing the prisoner has only been engaged in the case for a couple of weeks, but it is equally true he has been familiar with the case all the time and visited the prisoner within three or four days after the shooting, and although he may not have expected at that time to appear as his counsel, still he has had a length of time to think the matter over, and he does not therefore stand in the same relation in the case which a lawyer would stand on being assigned by the court for the first time to the defense of a criminal. If that duty had been imposed by the court upon a member of the bar who was not familiar with the facts of the case or defendant, I should feel it my duty to be more liberal than I can possibly consent to be with the counsel now present. He occupies the double capacity of counsel and relative. He is thus enabled to know definitely, as much as any man can possibly know, about the history of the prisoner's life. Your honor will readily see counsel can tell to-day what witnesses should be summoned on the question of insanity. He probably knew a month ago what witnesses ought to be summoned, as defense has foreshadowed their points in the case—1st, the question in law in relation to jurisdiction; 2d, the question of irresponsibility of this man on account of insanity, and 3d, that the death of the president was occasioned by malpractice on the part of physicians who attended him. The law is extremely liberal to persons accused of crime, and at present the law is more liberal than it ever was. In fact the liberality of the law has gone so far that it has almost interfered with proper punishment of criminals; but the law has never gone so far as your honor is now asked to extend it. The law provides that the prisoner shall have the process of the court to compel attendance of witnesses. That your honor cannot deny, and that the prisoner is entitled to without any request. The statute declares that whenever any person, indicted in a court of the United States, makes affidavit stating the witnesses whose evidence is material to his defense, and stating what he expects to prove by each, that they are within the jurisdiction or within a hundred miles of the place of trial, and that he is not possessed of sufficient means to procure their attendance, the court may order such witnesses to be subpœnaed, and the costs and fees shall be paid in the same manner as where witnesses are subpœnaed by the state law. It binds the hands of the court and restricts its discretion to cases of witnesses being within its jurisdiction or within 100 miles of the trial."

Scoville on Guiteau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, since coming to Washington, has had as large a daily mail as a cabinet officer. He has endeavored to read and dispose of his correspondence, but the task increases so with each day that he has sent to Chicago for his stenographic clerk, who is expected to arrive here to-morrow. He has not received a reply from Gen. Butler, and there wrote again this evening. He thinks Butler's telegram recently published indicates a willingness to defend Guiteau rather than that he should not have a thorough defense. He expects to summon almost every one who attended Garfield during his illness, especially Swaim, Rockwell and the surgeons. He thinks Butler will make it very warm for them, and that he will not neglect those responsible for the peculiar and illegal treatment of the prisoner. In reply to a question, he said "Guiteau was terribly frightened while in court. As I have said often before, he is a very timid man. He was under great excitement in the court room yesterday, and that made him look bad. When he returned to jail, and recovered his equanimity, he felt better and looked better. He intended to have his hair grow; and I intended to suggest to him to let it grow, but neglected it. When I returned to Washington I found that he had it cropped short again, which makes him look rather peculiar. Some three or five years ago, when Guiteau wore his hair like other people and dressed well, he made a very presentable appearance. He was really a very handsome, winning man. I never knew any man more careful about dress and appearance. He would talk with a man for half an hour and borrow money, when another man could not have done it on a long acquaintance. He had a very gentle, winning way, and, being of French extraction, was naturally polite. He could go into any hotel and secure a room without any baggage or other security, or without paying in advance. I have known him going to the Palmer house in Chicago three different times in succession, and to get a room each time, though on each former occasion he had been turned out. I only mention these things to show that he is not uncouth or rough as some people think him, and in these things he did not think that he was doing anything wrong. His moral sense is so depraved that he thought it was right. His idea was, 'I have not money now, but I will have some next week.' He always had glorious expectations of something that was going to happen to him—sums of money that were coming to him."

"Is Guiteau confident of his acquittal?"

"He doesn't know," replied Mr. Scoville. "He is given credit for having more intelligence than he really has. Of course the great question of insanity in this trial for the defense is the question. By the way, I have received many letters on this point; one I received yesterday from a lawyer made some very valuable suggestions as to tests as to insanity. I have received many letters like this from lawyers. Of course they are confidential, and I cannot give their names. If it were not for such help, I don't know what I should do. One of these letters is from a person who claimed that Guiteau, like himself, had been drugged by an electric telephone circuit and was under an evil influence. Others were from persons who claimed to be insane once, and offered advice in reference to the case."

"If Guiteau was not crazy," said Mr. Scoville, renewing his conversation, "he ought to be hung. The trouble is, it will require ten times as much proof of insanity in his case as in the case of a man who shot a negro in the street. People say he is not crazy, but they accept the defense of Sergeant Mason, that he is insane without question. I think there is much more proof of Guiteau's insanity. It will be hard to find a jury of moral courage enough to acquit Guiteau, even if they believe him insane. A groceryman will be afraid to vote for acquittal because he will think all his customers will condemn him. It does not require much courage to vote guilty, especially as public opinion will favor such a vote."

Col. Corkhill does not think the danger to the prisoner from self-appointed avengers is over, and intends to take every precaution to prevent any one from shooting him while in the court. There is much discussion as to Judge Cox's opinion on the jurisdiction question. The fact that he has sat upon deciding it before the trial begins, points to a decision against the jurisdiction of his court. Should this decision be given the prisoner would have to be taken to New Jersey for trial with many chances in favor of the courts there holding a failure of jurisdiction there also. Should Judge Cox decide he lacks jurisdiction there would be no appeal, but an appeal could be taken by the defense even after trial and conviction on habeas corpus proceedings. In the latter event he could not possibly be tried again. Should there be a likelihood of his escaping through such means the danger of lynching would be very great.

Pleasant for Guiteau.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—An organization is said to exist in Oyster Bay, L. I., with members in almost every village of Queen's county, sworn to kill Guiteau in case he escapes punishment through the courts by the plea of insanity. Meetings are said to be held at the houses of members at midnight.

The Spokan Times of the 13th inst., says: Our weather is colder than heretofore known in the month of October, with snow four inches on the level, where not melted. Although a sort of freak in nature it resembles the beginning of winter to a remarkable extent. Many patches of potatoes are still in the ground, with a thin crust of frozen earth covering them. Acres of cabbages, carrots, turnips and other vegetables, are still unhoused to the great disappointment of our gardeners.

DUBLIN, Oct. 17.—Some very severe injuries were inflicted by the police while dispersing the crowd assembled opposite the imperial hotel yesterday, in expectation of hearing a speech from Biggar. Large reinforcements of police and military are going to Limerick. Saturday night the police frequently charged crowds on the last bridge at Dublin Sackville street. The Pope's Reception.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The pope, seated on the throne of St. Peter's cathedral, received two thousand Italian pilgrims. His holiness was enthusiastically greeted. Replying to an address, he renewed his declaration that he could never accept accomplished facts without failing in his duty.

It is impossible to describe the enthusiastic cheers after the pope gave his benediction on receiving the Italian pilgrims at St. Peter's Sunday. The pope looked thin, worn and anxious. A gang of roughs pelted the pilgrims on leaving the church of St. Vitale, shouting "Down with the vatican."

Poor Pope Leo.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The pope in his address to the Italian pilgrims at St. Peter's yesterday stated the deplorable state of affairs placed before him the alternative of continual captivity made harder daily, or of going into exile. He concluded by saying that he was no longer secure in his palace, and that he was outraged in his person and dignity in a thousand ways. The gravity and earnestness of the pope made a profound impression. He closed his address with arms raised to heaven as though imploring help.

Evarts on the Spoils System.

[Evarts' Speech before N.Y. Historical Society.]

It is a sad fact that during and under the weight of this great presidential office four have died—two plagued to death by the importunities of place-hunters and two by the assassin's hand, the last being the result of disappointed ambition. Are these to be treated as incidents of liberty or as circumstances of the great fabric of our government? Let me consider whether this strife for office—the placeman's pride, the statesman's scandal and the nation's shame—cannot in some way be averted. Who shall stand before this people between the living and the dead president that this plague may be stayed?

On the 1st of September the Lockwood Bros. of the Peshastin mines made a clean up of 13 tons of common ore and got $117 in gold. Their appliances for saving the gold are not of the best and good judges are confident the ore will run $100 to the ton when properly crushed and cleaned up. There is a large district of valuable claims, and there is a probability that a great deal of money will be taken from them ere long. Mr. Blinn is putting up milling machinery now on the ground, but will not likely get it to running this season.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 17.—The chamber of deputies has approved the railroad concession of the executive granted Gen. QUALITY, QUANTITY AND PRICE
Are three great considerations to consumers in the general use of LUBRICANTS. On these we base our claims to the Trade, and confidently advertise.
OIL from shark livers is well known to possess very superior lubricating properties, and that manufactured by the Skidegate Oil Company, at their steam works, Queen Charlotte Island, has been tested in competition with Lard, Olive, Gallipoli and Rangoon Oils, and in every instance has proved its superiority. The QUALITY is good, beyond a doubt, a less QUANTITY is required, and the PRICE placed at a rate that is bound to command a large sale, and give satisfaction to the consumer. The Company has numerous testimonials in support of its merits, but to those who have not used it, a fair trial is the best way to test its properties and economic value.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 18, 1881.

DOES PORTLAND KNOW IT?

It so happens that in this year of the greatest commercial and industrial activity which the northwest has ever known the work on the river channels below Portland has entirely failed. It is now the season of lowest water. Work should have been under way two months ago. But in nearly all the operations of government the best time for accomplishing the objects aimed at is lost. Nothing can be done in a simple, direct and effective way. The circumlocution office is filled with men who must earn their salaries by sedulous study of "how not to do it." Any other course would subject them to reprimand, and perhaps to dismissal. Government has undertaken to build a dredge to remove a couple of little bars below Portland. The work to be done is quite trifling. Excavation of a few thousand yards of sand, which could be accomplished in three weeks' time by any efficient machine, would suffice for the present, and vessels could pass without difficulty or detention. Had this machine been ready two months ago, as it ought, the channel would have been excavated to proper depth as the water subsided, and no vessel would have grounded. Ever since April last the government has been trying to build this machine, but it is still far from having it ready. It may be ready perhaps after the water rises and when it is not needed and cannot be worked; but it will hardly be of any actual service this year. And next year ten hundred thousand yards of red tape may have to be reeled off before it gets to work, by which time vessels will be grounding again. It is just as well for Portland to look at this matter as it is; and prepare to act accordingly.

The proper thing to do is to levy a special tax upon the property of the city for river improvement. As the tax levy for the present year has already been made, this cannot be done till the beginning of the new year. Besides, it would be useless just now, since the season is so far advanced that machinery could not be constructed in time for this year's work. But Portland must not let the state of things now existing happen another year. The city has built a dredge heretofore, and must do the same again. Time has proven that the government cannot be depended on, and Portland must help herself. A tax of five or six mills will create a fund sufficient to build a dredge and operate it in the season of next low water. It will be needed in any event, whether the government does anything, or not. This city has in few things shown the enterprise which her position has demanded. Only to natural advantages is her growth due. To speak plainly, people here have done business because it could not get away from them. The time is now at hand when the citizens of Portland must show whether they possess that knowledge of which a great character of antiquity possessed the secret, namely, how to make a small town a great city. New conditions are arising which must be met. Old things are passing away. Construction of railways, extension of industry and development of commerce are about to bring marvellous changes. Portland is the central point of the northwest. She has great wealth. Her business, the long growth of thirty years, is established. She will hold her position, but to hold it she must prove worthy of it. She cannot hold it if she allows her channel of communication with the sea to be obstructed. What would answer heretofore will not answer now. The needs of a growing commerce and larger general development demand and will have security from interruption and detention, and from the loss and expense of delay. Within the last two years Portland has expended more than half a million dollars on her streets. Essential as good streets are, they will be of little permanent utility if Portland allows her commerce to be blockaded by the river bars. More than this there is not warehouse room here for more than a small part of the grain of the country. Proper facilities must be created here for doing the business of the country, and those who are interested in Portland's commercial position must look to it. The day of activity and enterprise is now at once to succeed the day of slow movement and small things in the northwest; and they who do not know it and fail to make preparations for moving on with [illegible] or left behind.

Portland has a great deal of wealth; but there are facts here which Portland with all her wealth would do well to heed. The first thing, the thing of prime necessity, is to see that the river channels below the city be deepened and kept deep enough. This is but a small undertaking. It will most certainly be accomplished; but what is now necessary is to see the importance of making preparations for it at once, so that the experience of the present year will not be repeated. The next thing is to establish here ample facilities for doing the business of the country. The railroads, after this year, will do their part. Portland must do the rest. There is concentration of capital here which is ample for the purpose, and it is rapidly increasing. What is necessary is to awaken it to a realization of its opportunities and responsibilities. Above all Portland should become impressed with a sense of the fact that the day of old things and small things is forever past. The future is not coming, as we used to suppose it. It is upon us already. Does Portland know it?

CREEDS OF THE PRESIDENTS.

The particular form of religious belief held by persons at the head of the state was once a matter of great concern, and naturally enough, since not only freedom of conscience, but personal liberty and state polity, largely depended on it. For centuries the history of nations and the weal or woe of mankind had their springs in the religious beliefs of princes and rulers. Since oppression from this source in Europe did so much to found colonies in America, our own people have carefully avoided the danger from which they experienced so many ills; and hence our national and state constitutions allow no religious tests, and nobody thinks of raising any question as to the religious belief of any man who comes into public position. It is a matter which is seldom regarded as of any importance at all. There may be, however, and doubtless is, a general interest, growing out of the common desire for details regarding the personality of eminent men, to have information as to the religious creeds of the presidents of the United States; and this Dr. Stanton endeavors to supply in an article published in the New York Evangelist, of which the following is a synopsis: It is well-known that Gen. Washington was a member of the Episcopal church, and that he was accustomed to commune with that church when he had the opportunity to do so. John Adams, and also his son John Quincy, were Unitarians, as also was Millard Fillmore. Thomas Jefferson had the reputation of being a free-thinker, in sympathy with the Voltaire-Paine school, though popular and political prejudice may have had something to do in giving him that reputation. No evidence that either Madison or Monroe was connected with church is presented, and their denominational preferences are left in doubt. President Jackson, in early life, was a man of violent and imperious temper, which quality stuck to him through his later career, but he was in sympathy with the Presbyterian church though he did not become a communicant until his retirement from the presidency. His favorite and associate in office as vice president during his second term, Martin Van Buren, was accustomed to attend the Dutch Reformed church at Kinderhook, though he was not a communicant, but in religion, as in some other respects, does not seem to have entertained any well established views. President Harrison, next in line of succession, like the first president, was a communicant of the Episcopal church before his accession to the presidency, and is probably the only president of the United States who, on taking the oath of office, saw proper to announce his "confession of faith"—he then declaring the occasion a fitting one to proclaim his belief in the divine origin and obligation of the Christian religion. Tyler was an Episcopalian in faith but not a communicant; Polk and Buchanan attended the Presbyterian church, as also did Lincoln, but neither was a communicant; Pierce was inclined to Congregationalism; Taylor showed no special preference; Andrew Johnson was claimed by both the Methodists and Presbyterians; Grant and Hayes were in sympathy with the Methodist church, but not members, while President Garfield belonged to the Disciples of Christians. Gen. Arthur, the present president, was the son of an earnest Baptist minister, but attends the Episcopal church, and though probably not a member, is reputed a man of very correct life.

Scoville makes out Guiteau to be a man of quiet and benevolent disposition, of pleasing manners, easy address and estimable character. He could meet a stranger, talk with him half an hour and easily borrow money of him; he could get accommodations at any hotel, though he hadn't a cent in the world, and by a combination of hardened cheek with gentlemanlike demeanor could push himself anywhere and succeed in living in good style, without ever earning an honest dollar, as the accomplished bummer only can;—but of course he is "insane." After reading his brother-in-law's account of him one must be convinced that the assassin is as mild mannered a man as ever "beat" a hotel keeper, swindled a casual acquaintance, hunted office with the instinct of a spoilsman, or murdered a president. "Insanity" is, of course, the substratum of such a character. Then insane men are the very ones who ought to be hanged.

A writer begins an article of fifteen pages which he hopes will be accepted as a contribution for our columns, with this sentence: "One morning, as the sun lifted his head from his downy pillow and shook the feathers out of his hair, he darted one of his golden beams through the window straight to my nose, and awoke me from my peaceful slumbers." Though we stop with a single sentence of this article, we trust that fact will not deter writers from sending similar contributions along with spirit and promptness. We can make use of any number of them. They will all serve as grist for the paper mill, and if they are writ on on good linen paper as this one is, so much the better.

In Arizona the Indian problem is passing through its ancient and stereotyped forms. A Tucson paper says: "The great Apache war is again adjourned and will stand adjourned until we have fattened another band and turned it loose with Winchester rifles and permission to go out on the public highways and slaughter more teamsters and rancheros and get up another tremendous blood and thunder sensation, and when tired out of the amusement return to reservations where fatted calves will be killed, purple and fine linen provided, milk and honey supplied, until they feel themselves able to resume their recreative diversions."

The events of the late war are still so vivid in the minds of the great mass of the people that the growth of a new and younger element in the regular army is not noticeable. By a glance at the last army register it will be found that but five second lieutenants in the entire army had any connection with the war, and a large number of the first lieutenants and higher officers have also developed since that struggle.

The arrest of Parnell, Dillon and others has fired the Irish heart throughout the world, and mass meetings are being held in all the larger cities of America and Great Britain. The move is a decisive one on the part of the British government, and indicates their intention to put an effectual stop to land league agitation of that style, even if it leads to more serious trouble.

The British government has given strict orders to all troops in Ireland to maintain themselves in readiness for immediate action (should they be called on) at any time. Flying columns are located in several of the larger cities fully prepared to move at a moment's notice.

Governor Wiltz, of Louisiana, who will be remembered as a prominent actor in the gubernatorial troubles at New Orleans in 1876, died at that city yesterday.

THE AVERILL MIXED PAINT.
Beauty, Durability and Economy Combined.

The attention of consumers is called to the superior quality of the AVERILL MIXED PAINTS, which have been used nearly twenty years with great satisfaction, and the following reasons: Its DURABILITY is acknowledged to exceed any other paint. Its BEAUTY and BRILLIANCY of finish are incomparable, even leading many to believe that varnish is employed in its manufacture. It can be washed or scrubbed without damage, retaining its original lustre—fire-proof to a high degree. Its convenience commends it to all—ready for use; any man, woman or child can use it.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

Large Attendance last night—Fine Wool Exhibit—Esprey's Carriages, etc. etc.

The managers of the fair expected but slender attendance last night as the result of sloppy streets and a disagreeable rain, but were surprised by a crowd fully three-fourths as large as that of Saturday night. From 7 o'clock when the doors were opened to 11, when the band with "Home Sweet Home" gave the hint, polite, the pavilion presented a brilliant and animated scene.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT PRODUCTS

have been left unnoticed in former reports. W. H. Hoffman of Junction City has on exhibition two large curly-maple blocks one in the rough and the other polished and oiled. This is the only exhibit of Oregon ornamental woods, and is good so far as it goes. It is to be regretted that the many other varieties are not represented.

The salmon interest is well represented. While there is nothing novel or very interesting in cases of fish, the taste with which they are displayed really makes the exhibits in this line attractive. J. & V. Cook of the Clifton fishery, display a large central cone surrounded by small pyramids. Prominently displayed with this exhibit are certificates of superiority awarded by the Sydney exposition, the Paris International fair and the Centennial commission, and five medals awarded by various international societies. An interesting side exhibit made by Cook Bros. is a pyramid of cans shipped from their establishment to Guatemala in 1874, and re-shipped back here in 1879. The fish in these cans is just as fresh and good as that packed in cans this year.

Badollet & Co., of Astoria, show a fine pyramid of a thousand or more cans.

J. O. Hanthorn & Co. have displayed fine taste in arrangement of their exhibit of salmon, in which there are a thousand or more cans. It is in the form of a ruined feudal castle with turrets, etc., etc., with ivy creeping round and through windows and crevices.

Long & Birmingham, of the White river factory, W. T., have a score of cheeses of all sizes. This firm has gone into the cheese business on a large scale and have their works in one of the best localities of the country. The tide lands of the Sound, of the rivers putting into it and along the coasts of Oregon and Washington afford the best dairy localities in the world. Long & Birmingham's display illustrates what can be done in cheese.

M. R. Hathaway, of Lake river, W. T., (Clarke county) exhibits several cheeses made from the Columbia river bottoms. The samples are very fine.

J. B. Knapp, commission merchant of this city, has on exhibition a fine box of butter from his ranch on Lake river, W. T. Another lot of butter is not ticketed. Washington territory carries off the honors in the dairy line. The exhibit, so far as it goes, is first class, but it is not as large as it should be. It is not to the credit of Oregon farmers and dairymen that the state has no representation.

A fine display of Oregon mineral water is made by the proprietors of the Wilhoit springs in Clackamas county.

Wool and other important exhibits will receive attention to-morrow.

THE LADIES' EMPORIUM AND LACE HOUSE.

This well-known house makes a handsome display of laces in connection with John B. Garrison's Sewing Machine department. Ladies who love to see genuine laces can have their taste gratified by an examination of the goods displayed by the Emporium, which consists of real point lace, point applique, Dutchess Britton, and the real English thread lace in many elegant and beautiful designs. They also have a fine assortment of handkerchiefs, scarfs, collars, etc., in point, Duchess and Valenciennes laces. These goods have attracted much attention and are really beautiful. The Ladies Emporium and Lace House, 167 Third street, is owned by John B. Garrison & Co., and is under the immediate management of Mrs. M. A. Winne. This house is also handling the "Emporium" glove, a handsome French kid glove of extra good quality, which is manufactured and imported for the Emporium. The latest novelty in Portland is the Turkish Rug pattern in burlaps worked with carpet yarn or rags as the taste of the makers dictate. The Emporium has the agency for Oregon and Washington of these patterns, and has a fine display of them at the Pavilion. They also keep "Cushing's Perfection Dyes" for the use of those who wish to color their own rags for the rugs.

CLIMAX WASHING POWDER.

The Pacific Coast Manufacturing Co. have a newly invented washing powder on exhibition which promises to revolutionize kitchen work on the coast. This seems to be the practical way of making the Chinamen go. The Climax powder contains no poisonous ingredients; it is excellent for the bath and champooing. It does away with rubbing and boiling clothes, and will not injure the most delicate fabric. Washing for an ordinary family can be done in one hour. For house cleaning it is of great value as it instantly removes stains and grease spots from wood work, and is equally good for washing wool. The company has state and county rights for sale and will offer the right parties good inducements. The Portland headquarters of the company is at No. 114 Main street, corner of Sixth.

TRIUMPH COFFEE POT.

Messrs. J. L. Williams & Co., the inventors of the Triumph coffee pot, are giving away free coffee to all who come to their stand near the Third street entrance. This is an invention which is of great value to all lovers of good coffee. It can be adjusted to any coffee pot, and by its use one half of the quantity of the coffee is saved. The pure flavor of the coffee is retained from the fact that the Triumph is absolutely air tight. The expense of it is almost nominal, thus putting it within the reach of every family. Williams & Co. have applied for a patent and have state and county rights for sale. Agents wanted who can obtain rare advantages in working the Triumph. The headquarters of the Triumph is at the office of E. J. Haight & Co., No. 52 Morrison street, Portland, Oregon.

THE HOWARD MURDER TRIAL

Adjourned for Two Weeks on account of Illness of Witnesses.

The case of The State of Oregon vs. Frank Howard, charged with the murder of James Smith, was called in the circuit court yesterday before Judge Stott. It will be remembered that on the 5th day of September last the defendant shot and killed James Smith at a resort on Ross island. Both men were said to be intoxicated at the time and as Smith was well known in this city, it caused considerable excitement here at the time. Upon calling the case yesterday District Attorney Caples, on behalf of the state, arose and asked for a continuance on the ground of the illness of Jennie Trevanion, an important witness for the prosecution. He said that he had a recent conversation with Dr. Saylor, who had made an affidavit that Miss Trevanion was dangerously sick with typhoid fever, and it would be impossible for her to appear in court for at least a week or ten days. In addition to the affidavit Dr. Saylor told the district attorney that it would be extremely dangerous for the witness to venture out before that time. Mr. H. Y. Thompson, on behalf of the prisoner, said that the defense was in the same situation as the prosecution; that, owing to the illness of a female witness for the defense, they would be willing to consent to a continuance; that his witness was unable to be present, and that her testimony was important, having been a bystander at the time of the homicide. He further said he would like the district attorney to consent to the admission of the testimony taken before the coroner. Mr. Caples declined to consent to this proposition. Mr. Thompson then asked the court and Mr. Caples to consent to taking the depositions of both sick witnesses and cited section 146 of the criminal code in behalf of this proposition. He informed the court that his witness was suffering from heart disease and might die at any moment; that he thought the interests of justice would be subserved by having her deposition taken so that in the event of her not being produced on the trial it could be produced in evidence. Mr. Caples said that this arrangement suited him, and Mr. Thompson suggested to-day as the time for taking the depositions. The district attorney further said that as to the section cited by Mr. Thompson there had been some controversy as to whether a deposition of a witness for the state could be used in a criminal case. It was finally agreed that the case go over until October 31st, and Judge Stott so ordered. The jurors who had been drawn specially for this case were discharged temporarily and ordered to return at the time set for trial.

THE POWERS CASE.

Grounds on which the Verdict is Asked to be Set Aside and a New Trial Granted.

Yesterday morning, the attorneys for John C. Powers convicted of murder in the first degree, filed a motion in the state circuit court, asking that the verdict be set aside and a new trial granted. The grounds on which the motion is based are:

1. That the verdict was against law and contrary to the instruction of the court.

2. The evidence is insufficient to justify the verdict.

3. Error in law occurring at the trial and to which defendants excepted. The court instructed the jury at the instance of the state that if the defendant armed with a loaded pistol sought Cornelius for the purpose of provoking an altercation as an excuse for killing him and he did kill him with the pistol, then the fact if it is so that Cornelius drew his pistol at the same time the defendant did his, or before, is no excuse for the defendant, nor would it make any difference who fired the first shot; he is guilty of murder in the first degree. No person can knowingly and voluntarily bring upon himself the very necessity which he sets up for his defense, and if he does so his homicide cannot excuse a homicide upon the ground that the deceased fired the first shot.

4. Order of the court by which the defendant was prevented from having a fair trial in this: Refusal of the court to allow defendant time to procure the attendance of C. H. Hawkes a material witness for the defense.

5. Irregularities in the proceedings of the court in this: That Robert A. Sutherland, one of the jurors, was incompetent to act as such because he had been prior thereto duly and legally convicted of felony, also of a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude.

6. Newly discovered evidence material for defendant which could not with reasonable diligence have been discovered and produced by him upon the trial.

Attached to the motion and made a part of it, was the affidavit of Jack Powers charging that Sutherland, the juror referred to, was convicted at the November, 1881, term of the state circuit court, of fornication and adultery; that he offered to prove by Wm. Fahrle that he intended to go to St. Helens on the morning of July 4th, but missed the boat; that the court excluded evidence tending to prove a bona fide intention on his part of leaving Portland, to which his counsel excepted, and that he had discovered new evidence material to his defense:

Attached also was the affidavit of Courtney Meek, which sets forth that he had a conversation with Ben Cornelius at the corner of the Esmond house, immediately preceding the affray. He told me that he had to kill Jack Powers; that Powers had threatened his life and he had to kill him and I was going to do it. I said to him, "If that is so, why don't you kill him on sight. You go right across the street there and watch for him and wait until he comes along. Have your pistol ready and shoot him as soon as he comes by." I told him not to strike Powers or speak to him, but to shoot as rapidly as possible and the law wouldn't touch him but that if he got into a fight with Jack and didn't kill him at first, Jack would get away with him. He said, "I'll do it right now. You'll never see old Ben go back. When I tell you I'm going over there to shoot him, I'm going to do it. You stay right here and watch and if I should get killed I don't want you ever to say a word about this conversation." What I said in my testimony in the trial of this case is correct as far as it goes, but I did not tell all that was said and done.

Also attached was the affidavit of J. P. Hare, as follows: That on or about August 15, 1881, I had a conversation with Wm. Wilson, one of the state's witnesses concerning the difficulty which took place between Cornelius and Powers July 4th, and that in said conversation said Wilson told me he was going to be a witness against Powers. I said to him, "Did you see the fight?" He answered, "No, I got there just after it was over, but I know all about it and I have a chance to make some money out of it, and I think I might as well make it that way as any other."

The application will be answered by the state and argued in a few days.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Italian Anniversary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—To-day the Italians of this city celebrated the 389th anniversary of the discovery of America with characteristic enthusiasm. The celebration was conducted under the auspices of the Garibaldi guards. The procession formed in front of Garibaldi hall on Broadway street and consisted of a number of Italian civic and military organizations preceded by a band. The procession marched to the ferry foot of Market street and crossing proceeded to Shell Mound park in Berkeley. Exercises at the park consisted of a brief address by G. F. Fugazi, president of the Italian guards, and an oration by Guiseppe Calgaris, both of which were delivered in the Italian language. The remainder of the day was spent in dancing and various sports and games. A very large crowd was present at the park. On return to this city the celebration closed with a display of fireworks.

Killed Himself Accidentally.

James F. Gill, aged 18 years, of Oakland, while out hunting to-day accidentally shot himself through the head and died almost instantly.

Suicide.

Charles Wagner, a native of Germany, aged 43 years, committed suicide by hanging in the cutlery shop of John Bauer, 637 Kearney street. Deceased came from Stockton about two weeks ago where he was employed as a butcher. He leaves a family in Germany.

News from the Arctic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—A letter received by the Morning Call from the Arctic relief steamer Rodgers, St. Lawrence bay, Aug. 19th, states that she arrived there the day before; all well. Found there the Russian corvette which accompanied the Rodgers to Sergammou. She would leave in the afternoon. Hired two natives for the cruise.

The Spear Street Fire.

It is now stated that the loss by the recent Spear street fire will reach $300,000.

Thrown from a Wagon.

This morning Benj. A. Farwell, aged sixty, was killed by being thrown from a wagon on the Webster street bridge, Oakland. Deceased kept a livery stable in this city.

A Find near Stockton.

STOCKTON, Oct. 17.—The workmen constructing reclamation levees on Capt. W. S. Moss' lands, a short distance southwest from this city, have discovered a spot in the low swamp land which contained a large number of human skulls. One skull was found with teeth in a perfect state of preservation. The mound is supposed to be an Indian burial place, but it is somewhat singular that the aborigines selected for a cemetery a spot that must have been a swamp for an indefinite period.

Man Killed on the Southern Pacific.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 17.—This morning the engineer of the north bound passenger train, after crossing the bridge over Kern river, noticed a man standing on the track facing the engine. Sounding the alarm and failing to move the man, brakes were applied, but too late. The engine struck him in the forehead crushing it fearfully. He lived only a few minutes. Nothing was found on his person that led to identity.

NEVADA.

Comstock Croppings.

VIRGINIA CITY, Oct. 16.—The east drift from the 2700 station of the Union shaft has made 18 feet this week. The heat is less than last week as there has been a marked decrease in the water coming in at the face. Twenty feet will be made in the drift coming west from the joint winze. Both drifts are in a vein of porphyry. Work is but now fairly resumed at the bottom of the winze, as it was found necessary to put in extra air pipes at that point. The east cross cut on the 2500 level, ain vein material of a promising character. Ore is being extracted at the Savage both on the Sutro tunnel level and from the level of the old Potosi tunnel. In both places bunches of rock giving high assays are beginning to be met with. In the east drift on the 2400 level of the Potosi, bunches and feeders of ore giving low assays continue to be cut. A large block of ground is now opened to exploration in the Yellow Jacket.

The Sierra Nevada east crosscuts Nos. 2 and 4 on the 2500 level were extended 30 feet each during the week, both in promising material. The main north drift advanced 32 feet in vein matter. A drill hole has been run east on this level 125 feet. On the 2300 level sinking the winze is continued. The Utah folks are opening a working station at the 2200 level. At the Yellow Jacket they are drifting north and south on the 3000 level, and have started on the east crosscut from the switch drift north on the 2828 level out 145 feet beyond the north winze. The Alta east drift is out 160 feet.

A Report only.

VIRGINIA CITY, Oct. 17.—It is reported here on good authority, but not official, that the joint Sierra Nevada and Union Consolidated winze is again in ore. It came in yesterday morning and made its first appearance in the southeast corner of the winze, which is where the first ore came in. It is said the assays are higher than from the first stratum at the Imperial. They are now all ready to begin prospecting on the 2900 level. The Savage folks are now working about 35 men at the two points whence they are extracting ore. The west crosscut on the 2400 level of Potosi is finding frequent bunches of quartz giving low assays.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Dead Policeman.

SEATTLE, Oct. 17.—The following is the official report of the post mortem held to-day over the remains of Police Officer Sires. The ball passed through the larynx and pharynx, fractured the hyoid bone, and was found imbedded in the body of the 5th cervical vertebra. The funeral takes place to-morrow under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Sterling exchange on London bankers, 60 days, weak, 50½; do, documentary, 50¾.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Sterling exchange, prime bankers', long, $4 80; short, $4 84. Good commercial, from 2@1½c lower; documentary, 3@1½c lower.

Silver bullion, 1000 fine ¾ fine ounce, 113¾; 1 P.M., 112¾.

U. S. bonds—3½s, 100½; 4½s, 113; 4s, 1 6.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Silver bullion, English standard, 925 fine, per fine ounce, 51¾.

MONDAY EVENING, Oct. 17.

Wheat is slightly better to-day. Quotations—$1 57½@1 58¾.

Tonnage at San Francisco.

The following is a summary of the engaged and disengaged wheat tonnage in port at San Francisco and to arrive, according to latest advices:

In port.	1881.	1880.
Engaged tons	81,574	63,651
Disengaged tons	7,064	13,140
To arrive, tons	392,419	204 560
Total supply, tons	481,067	281,352
Increase for 1881, tons		199,691

The carrying capacity of the above is 398,418 short tons, making a total tonnage supply in port and in sight of 726,061 short tons. The exports of wheat and flour for the season aggregate thus far 298,900 short tons, showing a total tonnage supply for the season of 1,036,961 short tons. On the whole the freight market rules weak, which evidently disappoints the expectations of those who hoped to manipulate it for extreme rates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The commercial situation has remained substantially the same as last week, a good degree of activity in most departments at good prices and great irregularity and fluctuations of values in others.

In the grain market there has been considerable excitement and violent fluctuations in wheat, consequent upon extensive speculation; at the close the market was weak. The export trade has been dull all through.

Provisions—Dull and nominal.

Rio coffee—Very slow and prices easier.

Refined sugars—In steady demand, with slight advance on some grades of Texas. There is an irregular demand on the basis of full values.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

AN IRON TONIC

Cures Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, General Debility, Fever and Ague, Paralysis, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Dropsy, Humors, Female Complaints, Liver Complaint, Remittent Fever, and all diseases originating in a bad State of the Blood, or accompanied by Debility or a low State of the System.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, Such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and some men from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

TAYLOR'S SPRING BEDS!

(REEDER'S PATENT.)

BEST IN USE.

NEVER LOSE THEIR SHAPE!

Read the following Testimonials:

PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 19, 1881.

I have now over thirty (30) of Taylor's Spring Beds in use in the National Hotel, thirty (30) of which have been used daily for over three years, and will say that they are in as good condition now as when put in, having needed no repairs in that time. I consider them the cheapest, cleanest and best spring bed in the market, and would not buy any other kind in my hotel.

(Signed) H. B. KELLOGG, J. F. DAVIS.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 10, 1881.

I have in use several of Taylor's Spring Beds, all of which give perfect satisfaction, and are to-day in as good repair as when first used, three years ago.
